Carolyn Lott King, age 74, passed away Friday afternoon, October 4, 2024, at her home. She was born on February 2, 1950, in Metter, GA. to the late Johnnie James Lott and the late Gladys Turner Lott. Carolyn retired from teaching after 39 ½ years of dedicated service. She was admired for her passion to teach the joy of learning and her heart for children. She was a faithful member of Marietta First Baptist Church, providing insightful words of wisdom in her Pillars of Faith Sunday School class.

Carolyn was a valiant warrior in Christ during her battle with breast cancer, and never gave up, even to the end, fighting for her family, her children, and her Lord; Matthew 5:16 is a true representation of her life.

Those who knew Carolyn will remember her as a warm, compassionate, care giving woman who always put the needs of others before her own. She was a light unto others, always spreading joy and inspiring everyone who interacted with her. She was a lighthouse, a strong beacon, illuminating through the darkness a tapestry of brilliant rainbow colors, as brilliant as her kindergarten classroom and her brightly coordinating outfits, complete with an infectious smile that uplifted anyone who came across her path.
