“ I worked with David as his helper. When we first met, i thought we would never get along. His gruff persona seemed to clash with my personality. After working with him for just a short time we begin to grow on each other. I discovered he was fiercely loyal. On multiple occasions he would tell supervisors to "leave his helper alone." We beigin to pick at one another which made the work day go by faster. We became good freinds and i truley enjoyed working with him. He will be missed
