“ Chandra and family... words cannot express my deepest sympathies for the loss of your husband, friend and father.

Chris was so filled with life and laughter. He always made me smile. I always repected his protectiveness of his family and his friends. It seems like only yesterday when we met, both of us newly married young couples. We bonded quickly and somehow even the distance of locations never caused us to forget the love and friendship that we had built.

I love you all and please know you are in my heart and my prayers.

Love,

Kristi###imported-begin###Kristi McLemore Hodge###imported-end##

“ I am so sorry to learn of your husband's death. We ate at the Hendersonville and Greenville restaurants often and remember your husband as a hard working individual who always went the extra mile to make sure everything was done right. I am praying that the Holy Spirit will comfort you and guide your family through this world with the wisdom of the Lord during the coming difficult years. God Bless You All.##imported-begin##Melinda and Melvin Pace##imported-end##

“ Chris was pretty much my second dad...he was always there for me regardless of what it was that I needed. He cared so much about everything and everyone around him that he forgot about himself half the time. He kept my head on straight and mentored me through all my issues in life. I love you Chris and I will miss you sooo very much and out O'Charley's will never be the same! I love you and I will show you I can click my heels oneday!!!##imported-begin##Christina Chavez##imported-end##
