“ Bill,
Ours is not a close business acquaintance, but at this time my heart goes out to you, having lost my own wife five yrs ago. Seek comfort and guidance in the Lord and know that this is not a loss, but only a seperation for a time, a seperation with anticipation of true and eternal reunion in Christ's presence.##imported-begin##Tim Johnson##imported-end##

“ Mrs. Cunningham was such a beautiful woman. I didn't get to get to know her like everyone else, I only got to know her for a short amount of time. But, just talking to her, and watching her with her family she was in my mind a very blessed woman. Although things did not work about between her son and myself, she will always remain special to me. She welcomed me not only into her home, but her life, and her heart as well. For that I am so eternally grateful. The day that Momma and Poppa renewed their wedding vows on October 27, 2008 they shared a moment that they probably did quite often that I will never forget. She was sitting in her chair watching TV as everyone was getting ready, Poppa shook his fist at her, and she did it right back. He smiled and she was looking right up at him. It was so beautiful and cute, I had never seen a man so devoted to a woman as Poppa is to Momma. I am what you could say ignorant to faith, and I never had really prayed before. Ever since Thanksgiving I started for her, and she will forever remain in them. She will always be my Momma.##imported-begin##Stephanie Hartkorn##imported-end##
