“ When we moved to Williams Rd., right beside Susan, her cute little son, Jason and beautiful baby Jennifer, we became immediately friends...that was June 1981. We watched our kids grow up together, had many late night talks and got to know each other's families. We went to places together, Susan took our kids to their first Clemson rally that they never forgot, and were always there for each other.

It was a revolving door between our house and theirs' as Josh and Jason became friends, they were the same age. I'm trying to remember a specific memory of Jason but I can't think of one, he was there, playing with the kids, swimming in the pool. Jason was always polite and driven with his interests. The hardest part of moving after being Susan's neighbor for 30 years was not having her next door in Easley.

We are better people for the friendships we forge and the people we meet. I can say that about knowing Jason. He will be missed, always loved and is with Jesus now.
