“ My goodness, it seems like I knew Peewee for a lifetime. We have sat and had many conversations in our short time together, from the good ole days to storms coming to our favorite sweets and of course good music. He would have to listen to me sing every song in the jukebox, bless his heart whether I was off key or not he would give me a thumbs up and tell me “sounds good baby”. Peewee was sharp, he could remember nearly everything he had lived through and he sure loved to tell his stories. He was a man who loved life and so often said he loved his friends. Sitting and talking with his friends brought him so much joy. He would remind me often how thankful he was to have me as his friend and I’m so grateful I was honored to have his friendship in return. He let me be apart of some many moments in his life this past couple of years. I’m so grateful to have been part of his last moments. Even when he didn’t feel good he’d still pull together to tell me “hey baby” and “thank you” for being with him. True friends are hard to come by in this world and I’m so glad he was mine. I’ll see you later Peewee, maybe you will sign me in.

“ You called me Penny Pooka and took me fishing. You bought me Big League Bubble Gum so I could "chew like you". Weekends were for watching Hee Haw and watching you and Nannie dance to classic country records. You were and always will be my Papa. Until we meet again, sweet man. ❤️ I love you. ~Christy
