“ I'm a former neighbor of Jonna's son Josh and often had the opportunity to witness the closeness of their family bond. She will be sadly missed but this is a family of great faith which will see them through. God bless the Carper Family.

“ It was a great blessing to be able to work alongside Jonna at the University. Her love for her students and her work were evident in her kind and clear directions. She will be sorely missed, but I'm praising the Lord that she is now with her Saviour and her pain is gone. We are praying for her family.

“ Before I even got to know Jonna personally, I heard her sing one Sunday morning. I was impressed with two things. One was, of course, the sweetness of her clear soprano voice. (I would have been happy to listen much longer!) The other was the care with which she communicated. Every line was phrased to best display the text, and her enunciation was crystal clear, and yet natural. She was talking to us, encouraging us beautifully and effectively through her music. It was a privilege to hear her.

When I had the opportunity later to get to know her more, I understood. The focus, the diligence, the desire to serve others effectively that had so impressed me in her singing were all part and parcel of the way Jonna lived. That was simply how she approached all of life.

The choir of Heaven is singing more beautifully than ever now.
