“ Many times growing up we would be driving by and my mother would say let's see if Uncle Fred and Aunt Mae are home! When stop by and of course they were always there. Aunt Mae would either be working in her canning house or in her kitchen. As soon as the hugs hello were had the words "let me get you something to eat" we're always next. It didn't matter if you had just finished eating she wanted to feed you something, and it was always delicious! Even after I was a grown up I would come by by myself just to visit. I remember bringing my future husband to meet them. When I remember Aunt Mae, and Uncle Fred, the two words that embody them are smiles and hospitality.
