“ The memories will last forever, I love you Momma! I will never forget lining up when we were in trouble and I was crying so hard before you got to me I never got the switch, the time in Dairy Queen Parking lot grabbing ahold of you when you kissed Papa yelling you were gonna catch a germ, or when you was trying to teach me how to drive and we we're arguing and I a ran up on the curve, or chasing you up the road when Debbie broke her ankle and I had those knee high brown socks on, it pouring ran and Glenn had to come after me, I can hear you saying "Oh Mandy!" So many more. We love and miss you Granny! Love, Mandy, Lee, Layla and Bryce

“ I only got to meet her once when I took my best friend Brenda to visit her aunt Margaret. My son was with me that day too. After I got acquainted with Mrs. Margaret, it melted my heart that she accepted my Autistic son with joy and patience. Instead of confusion and fear like most people would react towards autism she was delighted to meet my son. I can confirm from that first meeting with her that she had a special heart for children. Mrs. Margaret was beautiful at the age of 95. She could've been mistaken for 75 years of age. Anyway just from that one visit I could tell she was beautiful on the inside as well as the outside. GOD rest her soul as she has journeyed with JESUS. May the LORD give the family comfort as well as peace. ~Taiwan Mosley
