“ I serviced BBB in Spartanburg where I met RJ shortly after he had knee surgery. We communicated on what time of year was a good time to have my knee surgery and just like with many of you his fatherly instinct always kicked in! He always told me to make sure I had enough money saved before I took the surgery and walked me through each step. I walk into BBB in Greenville several months later and RJ speaks to me, asks me about the knee (my wheels) and begins his conversation with, have you been saving money, have you set a date yet, and contiues to treat me like I'm his son until I give him enough info to satisfy him knowing I'd been doing my homework concerning the facts and finances. I was devastated when a BBB manager told me of his passing. Then I realized how thankful I am that God allowed us to spend time with such an awesome guy!

“ As I still grieve for my sister, Robin, I am saddened again by the loss of her husband, my brother-in-law, Richard. He missed his wife so dearly and yearned for her every day. We are never prepared for anything like this to happen and we are hurting deeply. I am going to try to hold on to the wonderful memories, the family togetherness which there was never enough of. Richard was very generous to all. He treated me so kindly and would always ask if there was anything he could do for me. My thoughts and prayers are with the Joseph family and my nieces, Amy and Chrissy, and my nephew, Kyle. My heart is filled with love for all of you.

“ Richard was more than a stranger that walked into my life at the age of 8 -- he was the only father figure I had to look up to in the last 28 years of my life. He showed me that it didn't matter that we weren't blood related, that we were still his responsibility. We all had our ups and downs like any dysfunctional family, but at the end of the day we threw away those differences. He made sure that my mom as well as her 4 children were well taken care for even after her passing. I am sure her passing was really hard for him, losing his love of his life after being married for so long. I am glad that now they have been reunited along with my brother looking down upon us and hopefully can still carry us along. It will be a long, rough road ahead, but there has to be some strength somewhere.
