“Where do I start: On March 25, 2025, I was asked if I could help with Sarah after Michael’s death. Even though we had met before, Sarah knew me as “Gary’s Mom. I took her hand and asked her if it would be alright for me to stay with her while Gary and Lori worked: she said “yes.” I fell in love with her and treated her like she was my Mom. I had to remind her on a few occasions that beauty came from within. I never came in without speaking to her first. We made fun of the women on soap opera’s and talked about the humongous earrings they wore. I made sure she had everything she needed to have medically and food wise. Every time she watched me pack my bag up and before I could turn around I heard: “Are you leaving?” I saw when her hands shook so bad she could hardly walk with her walker. I told her I would be bringing her potty beside her chair when she had to go to the bathroom. The Sunday morning she had to go back to the hospital, the EMS Tech was having a hard time convincing her to let her help get her to the stretcher: She would not budge. The Tech asked if I would talk to her and convince her she needed to have some test run. I walked over, got down on my knees and took her hand. I said: “Sarah they need to run some test on you” Her response was “Why can’t they do it here?” I explained that the machines were too large to carry in the ambulance. I then asked: “Will you let me hold under your right arm and help you get to the stretcher?” Her response was: “Yes” She asked me one day when her mind would get better: I responded: “Sarah, unfortunately there are some things Drs can’t fix.” She assured me she was saved but the night I stayed at the hospital, I needed peace. I told her I knew she couldn’t speak but I asked her to mentally pray with me. I used John 3:16 then prayed the sinners prayed: I got peace at that time. I still love her and will forever remember the secrets we shared but I will never share those secrets with anyone.
I’m praying for the family
